Read with the Daffodil Princesses at Pierce County Libraries

PIERCE COUNTY, Washington – The Daffodil Princesses will visit several Pierce County Library System locations this spring to read with children. Members of the Daffodil Festival's Royal Court will read a story and be available for photos with children ages 3-8.

"Children love reading with the princesses and we are super thrilled to foster this love of reading and highlight strong female role models," said Pierce County Library Executive Director Gretchen Caserotti. "Our partnership with the princesses not only sparks a passion for reading in the youngest readers but also shows them that literacy is the key to success."

The Pierce County Library values its partnership with the Daffodil Festival and its court. This partnership shows the Library's commitment to relationships that support and strengthen communities.
